

For many years I have been asking the Lord and praying about what my future would look like and as my graduation from high school nears, I felt like the Lord has put it on my heart to pursue a calling to the mission field. After an abundance of research and time with the Lord, I decided to choose Youth With A Mission (YWAM) as my launching pad into this next chapter of my life.

I feel that it is my life's calling and desire of my heart to spend my life in intercession and learn as much as I can and go as deep as I am able to in the Lord. I hope to build my foundation in the Lord with the guidance and leadership within the YWAM training program.

Of many programs that YWAM has to offer, the course that I have chosen focuses on giving students the tools they need to share the gospel with the nations using the powerful tool of intercession. This school will equip me to share the love of the Jesus with those who have not experienced the beauty of the Father.

As I work towards this goal, I am first and foremost searching for people to partner with me in prayer. It is crucial for me to have prayer support from my community at home while I embark on this new adventure. I am also in need of financial support. My current goal is to raise $8,000 and this will cover my travel expenses, lodging, food my training that begins September and will conclude in December. Following the schooling, I will go on an outreach on the mission field from January until March.
